2. New Las Vegas Club Will Ban "Mainstream Records" And "Lazy Artists"
A new after hours club will be opening February 1st on the infamous Las Vegas strip and they plan to put an end to all of the generic sounds in Sin City. AFTER, the club, will be holding it down for the underground by enforcing some strict rules on the kind of sound they want their [...]

3. New Vegas club sets strict 'DJ Rules' you don't want to mess with
For a club that's only one-weekend old, intimate Las Vegas after-hours spot AFTER has already nailed its PR game. While AFTER's a new arrival in Sin City's crowded market, it's quickly become the talk of the town, thanks to a poster that's been doing the internet rounds.

This New Las Vegas Club Will Be Banning Mainstream Music and it's Awesome
Las Vegas has a new after hours club opening tonight with a goal of saving partiers from hearing the same stuff other clubs keep playing. The new club is called AFTER, which shows the incredible creativity of the owners (I can only imagine what they will name their kids).

6. Changing Times in Vegas: New Club Bans Mainstream Tracks and Improper DJing

In what appears to be an effort to not only set themselves apart from the mainstream-obsessed Las Vegas dance music scene, but also attempt to help evolve and improve upon the American EDM scene, AFTER Las Vegas, a new club set to open on February, has released a set of rules that more or less [...]

7. Las Vegas Club Bans Mainstream Tracks And "Lazy" DJing

Written by Greg Moskovitch on 3rd February, 2014 A recently opened after-hours nightclub situated on the world-famous Las Vegas strip has decided to extinguish the endemic laziness and mainstream attitude of the EDM world today, giving performers a strict mandate titled "DJ Rules AFTER 3AM," which includes a list of "banned artists."

It's not the kind of message to DJs from club owners you'd expect to see in Vegas, but that's kind of the point. New club AFTER, which opened just this weekend gone, is attempting to break the mould of EDM-centric clubs in Sin City by setting out rules...

9. Las Vegas Club Has Awesome Rules That Ban DJs From Playing Lazy Sets Or Any 'Mainstream Records'

A new after-hours club in Las Vegas, appropriately named "AFTER," is implementing an interesting code of conduct with regards to its playlists. AFTER opened on February 1 and is on a mission to switch up the typical late night club scene.

10. Thom Svast Speaks on the Irony of AFTER's 'DJ Rules'

Over the weekend, the dance music Internets were ablaze with talk about some DJ Rules, primarily because they were super on-point. The list was to be put up in the DJ booth at AFTER, a new after-hours event going down in Las Vegas from 3:30AM to 8AM, and lays out what can be best described as the reverse of today's EDM scene.
